TROUBLE IN OLD COUNTRY OVER INDIAN STATUS

PREMIER IS OPTIMISTIC OVER UNITY

Prime Minister Mackenzie King Glad Manitoba Liberals Are Less Divided Than They Were

ARE OPPOSED BY UNITED TORY FOE

Attacks Policy of Mr. Bennett and Conservatives as Inimical to International Good Will

WINNIPEG, Nov. 1.—National unity, Imperial unity and Liberal unity were his aims. Prime Minister Mackenzie King told a large audience at a luncheon given here today. It was unity, not of conformity, but begotten of diversity. Ever since he had become leader of the Liberal party he had sought to make it broad enough to embrace all those who sought to further the best interests of democracy.

The Progressive movement he always considered, Mr. King proceeded, was only advanced Liberalism. Every true Liberal also has, squally with Labor, an earnest desire to promote the welfare of the working classes. Accordingly, he could not see why they should be divided so long as there was a "United Tory foe" opposing them.

He was glad to see in Winnipeg now so decided a change from when he came West in 1921. Then the forces of Liberalism were fighting among themselves. He had been endeavoring ever since to bring them together in the interests of a common cause. There was much more unity now.

Unity in Canada, Mr. King said, must be along broad lines. When dealing with Maritime matters or Western matters, his Government was ever actuated with a desire to do so as to promote the welfare of the Dominion as a whole. In Canada no one class, no one race, or no one creed should be allowed to dominate. It should always be recognized that minorities had rights as well as majorities.

ATTACKS CONSERVATIVES
The Prime Minister tonight attacked the Conservative party for proclaiming "a menace to our political life arising out of something that was transpiring in the United States," and for urging immediate

GREAT STORM IN MANITOBA DOES DAMAGE

Hallowe'en Blizzard of Snow and Sleet Plays Havoc in Province, Cutting Off Winnipeg

FARMERS HOWEVER WILL BE HELPED

WINNIPEG, Nov. 1.—Burdened with the weight of nearly five inches of snow, Winnipeg today counted the damage wrought in a Hallowe'en night of wind-lashed sleet and snow. Winnipeg was virtually isolated from the outside world. Only a narrow strand of wire running south to St. Paul afforded the Manitoba capital an opportunity to glean the news of the world or to tell of the city's predicament.

Four persons were in hospital today as a result of motor car accidents on slippery streets. Street car services were being brought back to normal daily. Telegraph and telephone companies reported hundreds of poles down on lines extending west.

SERVICES DISRUPTED
The damage was centred in an area close to Winnipeg. Wires covered with frozen slush split or broke, necessitating widespread efforts to reclaim circuits. Though restricted communications prevented accurate summary of the storm's damage, it was almost certain that the disturbance had been localized in Central Manitoba.

Meteorological officials estimated that the snowfall had extended from Brandon to Molson, fifty-five miles east. Communication with the East was re-established early today and world news was brought into

Discover Body Of Man Afloat In Coal Harbor

VANCOUVER, Nov. 1.—The body of a man, believed by the police to be that of Charles Simpson, was found floating in the water of Coal Harbor late this afternoon. The discovery was made by J. C. Botter, papers found in the man's clothing led police to believe the man's name was Charles Simpson, originally of Glasgow. The body was badly decomposed.

Inspection Tour Of Palestine Is Now Proceeding

JERUSALEM, Nov. 1.—Beginning its inspection tour of the places affected in the Arab-Jewish trouble in August, the members of the British Parliamentary Commission Inquiry went out today to Safed, where many Jews were killed.

The party of ten includes, besides the members of the Commission, Sir Boyd Merriam, counsel for the Jewish agency, and his assistant, Mr. Davis, William Henry Stoker, Arab counsel, and his assistant, Mr. Arley, and a photographer. An escort of three British soldiers is accompanying the commission. Jamil Hussein, secretary of the Arab executive and cousin of Amin El Hussein, Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, left today for London.

AGRICULTURE STRONGER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The Department of Agriculture announced today that November reports showed agriculture to be in a stronger position this year than a year ago, largely on account of lower production costs and higher prices.

MANITOBA LIKELY TO AID APPEAL

Prairie Province Expected to Join Three Western Governments in Rates Petition, Mr. Ladrner Says

NEGOTIATIONS IN PROGRESS

B.C. Rates Counsel Declares Prospects of Success of Appeal to Dominion Cabinet Never Better

THE Government of Manitoba will likely join the three western provinces of British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan in support of several claims in their appeal to the Dominion cabinet for equalization of freight rates east and west, particularly the request for a reduction of freight rates on fruit.

Mr. Ladrner said he had been in conference during the week with the Manitoba Government, the Winnipeg Board of Trade, Premier Anderson, and representatives of the Alberta Government, and as a result of these parleys, it is expected that Manitoba will get behind the movement for rate reductions.

REVIEWERS SITUATION
"Negotiations are now going on to secure Manitoba's support in the appeal. The Government of that province has already intimated its willingness to support a plea for the reduction on fruit rates to put British Columbia on a parity with Ontario and is not adverse to the claim for a reduction on rates on flour and grain for domestic use, and the adjustment of export rates on grain from Calgary to Vancouver."

"So far the Winnipeg Board of Trade has objected to the removal of the Mountain differential rate because they think it might affect their business."

DOUGLAS FIR OUTPUT MUCH BELOW USUAL

Production of Two Hundred and Nineteen Mills on West Coast Shows Considerable Decrease

ORDERS RECEIVED EXCEED PRODUCTS

SEATTLE, Nov. 1.—Production of Douglas fir in Washington, Oregon and British Columbia was considerably below normal for October, the reports of 219 mills to the West Coast Lumbermen's Association revealed today.

While orders during the week ending October 26 totaled about 5,000,000 feet more than in the previous week, they were still 9.42 per cent under production. Orders received during the year by 112 identical mills have exceeded production by about 1.1 per cent.

Production for the week ending October 26 in the 219 mills reporting, showed a further drop from the previous week's low total of only about 1,200,000 feet. The total for the week was 18,717,278 feet as compared with 184,896,104 feet during the preceding week. Orders totaled 168,559,990 feet against the previous total of 187,919,843. Production reported by 308 mills for the week, the largest group reporting to the association, was 209,071,202 feet, or 70 per cent of their weekly capacity.

Iverson, of Bella Coola, and by Rev. Sand, of Vancouver. Rev. Villavik, of Tacoma, and Ivor Fougner, Indian agent here.

Princess Ileana Narrowly Escapes Serious Accident

BUCHAREST, Nov. 1.—Princess Ileana, daughter of Dowager Queen Marie, and aunt of young Michael, had a narrow escape today in a yachting accident which caused general consternation among the public. Her yacht all but capsized when it ran on a rock at Agiriga, while running from Constanza to Balico. It was floated and towed to Balico.

CONSERVATIVE MAJORITY 73 IN NEW HOUSE

Final Figures, Pending Official Count, Add Still Further to Sweeping Liberal Defeat

SOME MAJORITIES ARE VERY SMALL

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—The party alignment in the next Ontario Legislature showed one change today with the transfer of Mr. J. St. Denis from the Independent-Conservative column into the Conservative total.

From the constituency of Prescott came today's change. Both Mr. St. Denis and Mr. L. P. Beaudoin were nominated at the regular Conservative convention in that riding, and when a second scheduled convention did not materialize, each claimed the official candidacy.

Conservative headquarters in Toronto announced that Mr. St. Denis is recognized as the official party candidate. Previous listings had placed Mr. Beaudoin as the Conservative nominee.

SOME CLOSE FIGHTS
The Canadian Press summary today accounts for all seats. The vote in some constituencies is very close, but until a revision or a recount is announced, no change has been made in the list.

Japanese Are Indignant at Business Bar

KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 1.—Japanese indignation at Chinese boycotting was evident today in the round table discussion of the Institute of Pacific Relations meeting here. Masumune Odagiri, director of the Yokohama Specie Bank, presented a statement insisting that the employment of the boycott "as an instrument of national policy" should be banned by the League of Nations.

Some Chinese delegates to the institute admitted the probable use of the boycott to enforce Chinese demand for the abolition of extraterritoriality, but other Chinese disagreed that this threat impeded.

NEW LINE PROPOSED
To meet the traffic needs of the district and in fulfillment of statements previously made, the directors of the Northern Alberta Railways have, therefore, decided to recommend to the Government and to the directors of the Canadian Pacific, the commencement, in 1930, of a line from Hyther to Rolla, a distance of fifty miles, and from Naiview westward, a distance of fifteen miles.

In addition the Northern Alberta Railways will, during the coming year, be undertaking the construction of a line from Hyther to Rolla, a distance of fifty miles, and from Naiview westward, a distance of fifteen miles.

Chairman of Lloyd's Says Recent Stock Upset Good For U.S. and for World

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Mr. John William Beaumont Pease, chairman of Lloyd's Bank and a financial authority, believes that the recent upset in Wall Street will eventually have good results both for the United States and the rest of the world.

In a statement to the Associated Press today Mr. Pease said: "To my mind the break in the New York Stock Exchange was necessary to put an end to the artificial and undesirable state of things which affected not only America, but also the rest of the world."

ATtracting BALANCES
"America, a great creditor nation possessing three-quarters of the world's gold, was attracting—balances, owing to the higher rates offered, from countries, not for the purpose of trade, but in order to assist in the extensive speculation in stock shares which was taking place."

This was prejudicial to other countries by the effects it had upon their exchanges and the harm it was doing their industries owing to the higher rates for money, while on the other hand it was of no service to America for her own legitimate trade purposes.

Now that the break has come good should result, and some of these anomalies have already begun to disappear. I am not in a position to visualize with any accuracy the effect on the internal conditions of America, but I feel she is rich enough to withstand, without any difficulty, a drop in the prices of securities, and I believe that cessation of the recent wild speculation should be productive of good both to herself and the rest of the world.

OTHER BRANCHES TO BE SURVEYED
MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—Announcement was made today jointly by Sir Henry Thornton and Mr. E. W. Beatty, of the branch line programme to be commenced in 1930 by the Northern Alberta Railways. The presidents of the two transcontinental systems, which jointly own the Alberta Railways, point out that under the agreement for the acquisition, the purchasers undertook to build, within five years, sixty miles of branch lines, in addition to the branches under construction by the Government of Alberta at the time the purchase was made.

TO JETTISON PROHIBITION
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The result of the Prohibition election in Nova Scotia yesterday, brought from Mr. Henry H. O'Leary, president of the association against the Prohibition Amendment, the inquiry today if the United States would not be the "next to jettison Prohibition?"

"One by one the few peoples of the world, who in a moment of war enthusiasm adopted Prohibition, are throwing it overboard," the statement said.

Only Finland, Prince Edward Island and the United States are left groping in the dark after attempted prohibition of the use of God's gifts. All three are Christian nations trying to forbid the use of the Christian wine of the New Testament.

"Will the United States be the next to jettison this unfortunate fancy, or will it be Prince Edward Island, or will it be Finland?"

FATALLY INJURED
EDMONTON, Nov. 1.—Graham Travers, twenty-one, was fatally injured when his motorcycle struck a girder on the high level bridge here last night. The youth suffered a fractured skull and died in hospital two hours later.

FUROR OVER NEW STATUS FOR INDIA

Violent Agitation in Great Britain Over Statement Made by Lord Irwin, Indian Viceroy

MR. BALDWIN OUT WITH REBUTTAL

Sensation Arises When Daily Mail Makes Veheement Attack on Conservative Leader's Attitude

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Lord Reading, former Viceroy of India, will ask in the House of Lords the reasons for what he calls "the extraordinary course" pursued by the Government in making a statement on dominion status for India without consulting the Simon Statutory Commission. He will ask further whether all the conditions and reservations in the 1927 declaration and the preamble to the 1919 Government of India Act remain in full force and effect, applicable to dominion status.

Lord Reading's questions will lead to a general debate in the Upper Chamber.

AGREE TO CONFER
NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 1.—Prominent politicians, including Mahatma Gandhi, Motilal Nehru and Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, discussed the Viceroy's pronouncement at the residence of Mr. L. V. Patel, chairman of the Legislative Assembly today. It was understood the gathering agreed to accept the Viceroy's offer of a round table conference in London on conditions a general amnesty should be granted, and a pledge should be given that the conference should consist of a majority of those holding the views of the Indian Congress.

It is clear the Viceroy's statement has disheartened the independent section, who now fear the forthcoming Lahore Nationalist Congress will give them scant hearing.

MR. BALDWIN INDIGNANT
LONDON, Nov. 1.—While the Labor ministry cleared, Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader and former Premier, rose in his own defence today in Parliament to deny the published assertion that he had fathered the expressions of Viceroy Irwin of India regarding Government views on eventual Dominion status for India.

Relationship of South Africa to Rhodesia Uneasy

SALISBURY, Rhodesia, S.A., Nov. 1.—None too happy relations between Rhodesia and the Union of South Africa, since the breakdown of the customs conference, were reflected today in a statement by Hon. R. A. Fletcher, Minister of Agriculture, that the Government was ascertaining whether a reciprocal agreement with Australia could be arranged. He estimated more than $1,500,000 worth of goods were now being taken from the Union of South Africa, whereas they might reasonably be bought in Australia. He regretted there should be a breach between the Union and South Rhodesia, but they had to study the interests of their own country, and their principal object was to obtain a market for Rhodesian tobacco, he pointed out.

Egg Pool Hands Out Large Sum To Its Members

NEW WESTMINSTER, Nov. 1.—Payments for the fourth pool period, September 1 to October 19, of the British Columbia Egg and Poultry Co-operative Association, are now being sent to approximately 1,700 members.

A total of 763,000 dozen eggs were handled, with prices considerably higher than in the previous period. The average for extras was 43 1-2 cents as against 35 cents in the preceding period. During the six month of the Pool's operation, forty-two million eggs have been handled, the volume of business totaling $1,280,000. Net distribution of profits for the six months totaled $200,000.

KILLED IN QUAKE

BUCHAREST, Nov. 1.—A woman was killed during a seven-second earthquake today, which caused much alarm, shook houses, cracked walls, and hurled down chimneys. Seismographic instruments at the observatory were damaged by the tremor, which was one of the most severe ever experienced here.

Crashes Through Store Window on Douglas Street
A CURIOUS accident occurred on Douglas Street at 9:15 yesterday evening. Mr. M. J. Carey, of 1411 Lang Street, had parked his car outside the Metropolitan Store. Upon re-entering the car he found that the self-starter failed to function. He therefore used the crank, but unfortunately omitted to notice that the car was in gear.

Upon the engine starting the car mounted the pavement, swerved and crashed through the plate glass window of the Metropolitan Store. Luckily neither Mr. Carey nor any of the pedestrians were hurt.

LABOR WILL BE FORCED INTO FIGHT

Return of Prime Minister Is Signal for Challenge for First Test Battle of Present Session

VOTE OF CENSURE IS TO BE MOVED

British Trade Relations With Soviet Government Will Be Called Into Question by Conservatives

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Labor Government of England, reinforced by the return of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald from his American trip tonight, hardly ready for its first major parliamentary battle, which will take place next Tuesday.

Three chiefs of the Conservative Party, including former Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, announced tonight they would attempt to move a vote of censure next Tuesday against the Government on the manner in which Labor was working for resumption of relations with Soviet Russia.

Two-Year-Old Boy Rider

Two-Year-Old Boy Abraham, of Melbourne, Australia, With the Shetland Pony He Rode Quite Expertly at the Recent Agricultural Show, When Many Youngsters Displayed Their Horsemanship.

London on Indian Statutory Reform, and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain. It indicates the real intention of the British Government, following much speculation in newspapers recently, of the possibility of the granting of Dominion status to India.

"The great mass of Indian opinion, irrespective of all divisions of race or religion, is fundamentally loyal to the King-Emperor, only wanting to understand and be understood," says the Viceroy's statement.

The Viceroy proceeds that until the Simon Commission's report has been made, it is impossible and, in the view of His Majesty's Government, improper to forecast the nature of any constitutional changes that may subsequently be proposed. But it is a matter of deep concern to His Majesty's Government to discover means whereby, when the Commission has reported, the broad question of British India's constitutional advance may be approached in co-operation with all who can speak authoritatively for the opinion of British India.

There are many reasons why the sulphur-dioxide process should be used, Mr. Beach says. He explains that while it is a system that requires careful overseeing in being carried out, there is not the same care necessary once the fruit has been processed. It does not have to be kept in cold storage, and the expense of carrying it until made use of is not so great.

The British factories understand the process and it appealed at once to them.

The price that is obtained on the sulphur-dioxide process fruit runs very much higher than does the two-plus-one treated berries. It is therefore likely, he believes, that this season there will be considerably more of the berries treated by the sulphur-dioxide method than there were this year.

Mr. Beach was highly pleased with the results of his trip from every standpoint. The negotiations with the Government officials, and with the jam manufacturers of the East, were of the most amicable character, and attended with good results.

PEACE RIVER LINES TO BE CONSTRUCTED

STATEMENT UNTRUE
Asking the indulgence of the House to make an observation, the former Premier said:

"An article has been brought to my notice which appeared in today's Daily Mail. It is sufficient for me at the moment to say that every statement of fact and every implication of fact contained in that article is untrue, and in my opinion gravely injurious to public interest, not only in this country, but throughout the Empire."

STORM OF PROTEST
The Viceroy's statement, which was published both in London and in the official Gazette at New Delhi, aroused a storm of protest in the London press. Several papers declared that the Commission of Sir John Simon not only disapproved Viceroy Irwin's making the statement before the Commission issued its report, but protested against such a step.

The Daily Mail article to which Mr. Baldwin took exception asserted that at a recent conversation with Viceroy Irwin he had, without having consulted or informed other Conservative leaders, pledged them and the Conservative party "to support a scheme which the Viceroy was conceiving with a Socialist Government."

The Mail declared that the Conservative leaders yesterday had insisted Mr. Baldwin formally repudiate his pledge. The Mail and other papers said that the Viceroy's statement would complicate greatly the difficulties which lay ahead of the Simon Commission.

A calmer view was expressed in the Times, which remarked editorially that the pronouncement contained no promises and revealed no changes in policy, and that the mention of Dominion status for India had been made again and again by all parties as the goal of India's constitutional fulfillment.

VICEROY'S STATEMENT
NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 2.—The British Government desires that India, in the fullness of time, should take her place in the Empire in partnership with the Dominions, but adjustment of relations between British India and the Indian Native States is necessary before British policy in India is followed to its complete fulfillment.

This is the gist of a long statement by Lord Irwin, Viceroy of India, made public in an extraordinary issue of The Royal Gazette, of New Delhi, last night, following a visit to England by Lord Irwin.

The statement follows publication of letters exchanged between Sir John Simon, head of the Commission, and the Viceroy.

There is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any drugist, get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16 oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Then you make 16 ounces of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus riding the whole system free of the cough. It loosens the germs, laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

retaliation in the way of higher tariff.

In his first political address since the prorogation of Parliament last July, the Premier recalled that Mr. R. B. Bennett and some of his Conservative followers had suggested during the last session of Parliament that body should be kept in session pending final action on tariff revision in the United States.

"Does anyone imagine that the United States Congress would have cringed before an attitude of that kind? As a matter of fact, would not such a course have proved in the long run the best means whereby to defeat our own ends?"

The Premier said he thought it likely that the Dominion Parliament would be in session again before any tariff revision takes place in the United States—"if it takes place at all."

"With respect to my own attitude towards the United States," he continued, "let me say that while I will yield to no man and to no country in standing for the course which is best calculated to conserve the interests of Canada, while Canada at all times comes first in my thoughts and my aims, I stand four-square with those statesmen of Great Britain who hold that there is no duty higher than that of maintaining the friendship between the English-speaking peoples and in believing that friendship and good will between the British Empire and the United States is, as regards the peace of the world and the happiness of mankind, more important than all else. If that be true of the British Empire as a whole, of no part of it, it is quite as true of our own Dominion, separated as it is from the United States by a boundary line which is impermeable and which stretches across a continent from sea to sea."

INTER-IMPERIAL TRADE
Mr. King added, however, there is a movement for effecting more in the way of inter-imperial trade, which, from voluntary as well as from Government agencies, has gathered momentum almost daily since the revision of the United States tariff began.

Here we already see the extent to which even the possibility of a revision of their tariff by the United States has served to bring home to component parts of the Empire within the Empire itself, with regard to any and every eventuality, as large a measure of inter-imperial trade as may be possible.

There seems little doubt that Empire producers can supply vast quantities of goods now produced in the United States.

If the tariff of the United States is altered to affect any Canadian interests, Mr. King said, "the United States will surely recognize our right with respect to our tariff so to legislate as to have regard for Canadian interests."

MR. LETHBRIDGE SILENT
No further announcement has come from Mr. J. G. Lethbridge, leader of the Progressive group, who is awaiting the official figures on Tuesday before deciding whether he will seek a recount.

Newspaper estimates on complete returns have ranged the majority for Dr. L. W. Freer, Mr. Lethbridge's Conservative opponent, from 39 to 59.

With sixty-two Conservative members out of the 111 elected, Premier Ferguson holds a majority of seventy-three. These figures do not place in the Conservative total the one Independent-Conservative now appearing in the summary. He is

Mr. Lader stated that the prospects for success of the appeal to the Dominion Cabinet were never brighter, with three Western provinces and probably a fourth united in a single petition, which is now in the hands of members of the Privy Council, and "which sets out clearly the facts and basis of our claims."

He said he would not be surprised if Premier Mackenzie King, on his present tour of the West, made an announcement indicating the willingness of the Privy Council to grant relief in the matter of freight rates.

"Our case is a demand for the application of the principle of equalization so that British Columbia will receive treatment equal to that enjoyed by the Eastern provinces. In other words, we ask for equal opportunities for the farmers, the manufacturers, the shippers and the business men."

"Now with a United West," Mr. Lader said, "the chances of our success are very good, and when the case comes up for hearing, we fully expect to end it with a victory."

CAR DRIVER ABSOLVED OF NEGLIGENCE

Mr. G. D. Gibney Exonerated by Coroner's Jury Inquiring Into Death of James Askey Thursday

ACCIDENTAL DEATH INQUEST VERDICT

Mr. G. D. Gibney, driver of the Ford truck which knocked down James Askey, fourteen, cyclist messenger for the Canadian National Telegraphs, on Dallas Road on Thursday morning, the latter dying from injuries received in the accident, was exonerated of blame in connection with the fatality by a coroner's jury yesterday.

Accidental death was the verdict returned by the jury, after hearing evidence by five witnesses at the inquest held at the Thomson Funeral Home, with the coroner, Dr. E. C. Hart, presiding.

Mr. Gibney took the witness stand and volunteered to give his evidence freely. He related his version of how the mishap occurred, and this was supported by the testimony of Mr. George Preston, who was riding in his machine at the time of the collision of the car with the messenger boy on his bicycle.

Jimmy Askey's death was caused by a fracture of his skull, Dr. R. L. Miller, who attended the injured boy at the Jubilee Hospital after the accident, testified. Dr. Miller told of having been called at 11:30 a.m. on Thursday to attend Askey at the hospital.

Mr. Gibney took the witness stand and volunteered to give his evidence freely. He related his version of how the mishap occurred, and this was supported by the testimony of Mr. George Preston, who was riding in his machine at the time of the collision of the car with the messenger boy on his bicycle.

Mr. John Sherry said he was riding on his bicycle on Dallas Road, near Ogden Point, between 10:30 and 10:45 o'clock Thursday morning. He was 100 to 150 yards behind the Ford truck driven by Mr. G. D. Gibney.

"Before the car reached the dock-

London's Next Lord Mayor

THE Lord Mayor-elect of London, England, Sir William Waterlow, waited on the Lord Chancellor at the House of Lords recently to receive official intimation of His Majesty's approval of his election. The photograph here shows the Lord Mayor-elect, left, leaving the House of Lords.

I saw the deceased coming out of the dockyard on a bicycle. It seemed that he had decided to cut in front of the car, but he hesitated and turned back. The driver of the car sounded his horn, but the boy cut across in front of it. The driver tried to swerve out of his way, but the boy was struck by the car and knocked down," he stated.

Dr. E. C. Hart, the coroner, asked witness if he had any idea how fast the car was going.

"It was traveling about twenty to twenty-five miles an hour," "What was the day like?" "It was a clear morning, and the street was dry."

Witness said that when the accident occurred he jumped off his bicycle and saw a man who had been riding in the car trying to get the body of the deceased out from under the car. Witness said he looked at the body and then went and telephoned for the ambulance and the police.

DRIVER ON THE STAND
Mr. G. D. Gibney, driver of the car which knocked down Jimmy Askey, was the next witness called. The coroner said witness was in the position where he might be charged with a crime, and therefore he could either give evidence freely, without reservation, or by forcing you to testify, in which event such evidence could not be used against you elsewhere.

Mr. Gibney decided to give his evidence freely, without reservation. Witness said that on Thursday morning last he was driving a Ford truck on Dallas Road, going in an easterly direction. The car was in good condition and the brakes were in good order, as far as he knew.

"At the Ogden Point gates I saw a boy who was about to come out from the dockyard into Dallas Road on his bicycle. I sounded my horn and the boy looked around and saw me. I went forward, and just as I passed the gates the boy hesitated which way to go, and then he came alongside, to go parallel with me.

"All of a sudden the boy turned to the left and went right in front of my car. As he was turning, I answered my car to the left also in an effort to avoid him, but evidently the car hit him and he fell underneath the car," Mr. Gibney testified.

SPEED OF CAR
Coroner Hart: "Have you any idea what speed your car was making?" Witness: "It was going very slow. I should say between twelve and fifteen miles an hour."

"How long have you been driving a car?" "About three weeks."

Tonight, there will be a final organization meeting in the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Fred Landsberg, chairman of the Victoria campaign committee, will preside, and the meeting will be addressed by Mr. Robinson and Dr. McDonald, secretary of the institute.

CONSTABLE CREMER
The last witness was Constable Charles Cremer, of the city police force. He told of being summoned to the Ogden Point gateway on Thursday morning at 10:55 o'clock, and upon his arrival there found the deceased lying on his back on the boulevard on the north side of Dallas Road, east of Montreal Street. The boy was unconscious, having received severe injuries to the head. Witness placed him on a stretcher, put blankets over him and lifted him into the ambulance, which took him in haste to the Jubilee Hospital.

Constable Cremer said the deceased's cycle was lying beneath the car when he arrived at Dallas Road. The car was facing east on Dallas Road and was standing on the north side of the street, about 2½ feet from the curb. The car was not damaged, he said.

Addressing the jury, Coroner Hart said: "I hardly think I need comment on this case. The evidence is quite plain; in fact, plainer than is often the case in such accidents. All the witnesses agree on the essential parts of the story. You may retire in charge of the constables and consider your verdict. A verbal verdict is all that is required."

After deliberating for several minutes, the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death.

More Workers Wanted to Aid in Next Week's Campaign to Provide Institute for Blind
According to Mr. M. C. Robinson, superintendent of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, the whole success of next week's campaign for raising $50,000 as Victoria's share towards the building in Vancouver of an institute for the sightless has been drawn by the dependent upon the number of voluntary workers available.

The campaign committee urges anyone who has the cause of the blind at heart to get into touch with the campaign headquarters on Broad Street or to signify their willingness to help the campaign by telephoning their names and addresses to headquarters. The telephone numbers of which are 568 and 571.

The headquarters, which lie just south of The Colonist office, are open from 9 o'clock in the morning until late at night. A great deal of interest has been shown by the beautifully executed basket work, the work of blind men and women, with which the window is decorated.

Tonight, there will be a final organization meeting in the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Fred Landsberg, chairman of the Victoria campaign committee, will preside, and the meeting will be addressed by Mr. Robinson and Dr. McDonald, secretary of the institute.

CHAMBER WILL ASK FOR SIX MONTHS HOIST

Board of Directors Decides to Ask Council to Postpone Passing of Objectionable By-Law

REPORT OF RETAIL SECTION PRESENTED

Yesterday the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce endorsed the report of the retail section in the matter of the proposed Sign By-Law and decided to ask the City Council for a six-month hoist.

Mr. J. W. Maynard, in making a report on behalf of the section, told of the delegation which waited upon the council, and was instrumental in having the by-law tabled. There were many flaws which could be found in the by-law, he said, but it was only necessary to cite the more important of these in order to show how undesirable new regulations would be.

"The by-law," said Mr. Maynard, "provides for only one sign of any kind for each business. David Spencer's, therefore, if they displayed a sign on Douglas Street, would be prohibited from making use of signs on Broad and View Streets. The by-law also insists that the Class B sign, which must not exceed four and a half square feet in area and must not project more than three feet over the sidewalk, has got to be insured, whether the owner wishes it or not."

DANGER TO PEDESTRIANS

"I asked the members of the council to show me one solitary instance of a Victoria sign falling and causing injury, but during the past forty years and they were unable to do so. When this by-law becomes effective a man will be unable to make the slightest change to the wording of his sign without involving the aid of the building inspector, and, where the sign is illuminated, the electrical inspector."

"The council tells us that signs which are flat against the building are not dangerous; a point which I fail to see. For these, and many other reasons, the retail section feels that we should try to get along in Victoria without the imposition of such a by-law for the time being."

NEED OF REGULATIONS

Several of the members gave their views upon the desirability of the by-law. Mr. James Parfitt pointed out that the time had come when there should be some definite regulations. He was of the opinion, moreover, that if a man advertised his business by displaying signs which projected upon public property he should be made to pay for them.

Mr. Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., in agreeing with Mr. Parfitt, said that regulations must be made to govern modern conditions. Even now there were a great number of people in the city who were objecting to the number of signs used. He suggested that the City Council should be induced to hold up the by-law until the Vancouver Sign By-Law had been tried out.

Mr. J. O. Cameron was of the opinion that there were too many regulations already in Victoria, and moved that Mr. Maynard's report, which asked for a six-month hoist, should be endorsed. The motion was seconded by Major H. C. Holmes and carried unanimously.

RARE LITHOGRAPH COMES TO LIGHT

Picture of H.M. Paddle Sloop Driver Is Discovered and Sent to B.C. Historical Association

A rare lithograph of H.M. paddle sloop Driver has recently been received from England by the maritime committee of the B.C. Historical Association. The lithograph was discovered by Mr. A. H. Long, of High Street, Portsmouth, who has already supplied several old prints to the maritime committee. Up to the time of its discovery, it was thought there was no contemporary picture of the Driver in existence, because no mention was found in the catalogues of Messrs. T. H. Parker and Sons, of London, or of the collection of Commander Sir Charles L. Cust, Bart., R.N., or other books of reference.

The lithograph is entitled "H.M.S. Driver and Yacht, Gondola and Emeralds, off Cronstadt, June 37, 1854. The picture is evidently one of a series entitled "The English and French Fleet in the Baltic, 1854," and there are the two coats of arms or shields, the Royal Arms of the Queen of England and the Imperial Arms of the Emperor of the French. The shipping is drawn by Dutton. The picture was published on November 27, 1854, by Day & Son, 17 Gate Street, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London.

Photographs have been made of the Driver, and prints can be obtained at the Victoria Book and Stationery Company, on Government Street, where also the lithograph is on show. The lithograph will eventually be loaned to the Provincial Archives for display and safe keeping.

The first British Governor to hold office in the Northwest Coast was Richard Blanshard, Esquire, and he arrived in H.M.S. Driver from Panama on March 10, 1850, and read himself in on March 11. In those days long ocean passages were made under sail, even by steamers, and the 3,968 miles from Panama were no exception.

WELL-KNOWN OFFICER DIES IN VANCOUVER

Lieut.-Colonel Robertson, D.S.O., Formerly in Command of Local Regiment, Passes Away

MILITARY FUNERAL WILL BE HELD HERE

As a result of wounds and a protracted illness contracted while he was engaged on active service in France, Lieut.-Colonel Francis Arthur Robertson, M.A. D.S.O., died yesterday morning in Shaughnessy Hospital, Vancouver, according to advices received in Victoria last night.

At the outbreak of the Great War, Colonel Robertson was on the staff of the Fifth Regiment, Canadian Garrison Artillery, and during the first year was with the Garrison at Esquimalt, where he held the rank of captain. After the 4th Battalion was organized, he was appointed Major by Lieut.-Colonel W. W. Winsby, and went overseas with that battalion. He served with distinction with the battalion on the Western Front, and was in the night action at Regina Trench, 1916, and, leading his company, succeeded in capturing the trench, suffering heavy losses, he himself being badly wounded by shrapnel, losing his right eye, part of his right hand, and sustaining severe injuries to his head.

On his discharge from the hospital in England, he declined to accept honorable discharge from the army, and he was invited by Colonel Winsby to accept the position of second in command where he was tendered a commission in the artillery service, which he accepted. Going to France in charge of a field battery after some intensive training, he was in command of the battery on the Amiens Front when the great advance started. Again he suffered through wounds, losing his right leg as a result, and was recuperating in hospital when the Armistice was signed.

For his splendid services during the war, Colonel Robertson received the D.S.O., and returned to Canada early in 1919, suffering much as a result of his wounds and hospital experiences. He then commanded the Fifth Regiment, Canadian Garrison Artillery, for several years, and was later appointed chairman of the Returned Soldiers' Commission for British Columbia, and during the past two years has been secretary of the British Columbia Canteen Fund, administered in conjunction with Lieut.-Colonel W. W. Foster, D.S.O., and Mr. Justice McDonald.

In 1919, Colonel Robertson married Miss Gertrude Wright, of the Ottawa Civil Service, who died three years ago. There is one son, Donald, six years of age, who is residing with Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Robertson, Vancouver.

Lieut.-Colonel Robertson was a splendid officer and most popular with the men of all ranks serving under him, being possessed of many amiable qualities which endeared him to a large number of friends and acquaintances. He was born near Rice Lake, Peterborough County, Ontario, on Christmas Eve, 1877, and went to Manitoba as a small child in 1880, growing up on a prairie farm near Marquette. He was a graduate of Manitoba University, taught school in Manitoba for a number of years, and for a time was principal of a business college in Edmonton. He then became a law student in the firm of Attorney-General Cross, in Edmonton and Regina, from whence he came to Victoria as vice-president of the Western Finance Company, remaining until he donned a uniform for active service. Members of his family now living are: Rev. J. R. Robertson, of St. James' Church, Vancouver; William John, druggist, of Vancouver; Wilbert A. druggist, of Brandon; Albert E., of Stinson & Company, Vancouver, and a sister, Mrs. (Dr.) C. O. Banning, of Cutknife, Sask.

The body of the deceased officer will arrive in Victoria Tuesday morning, and the funeral will take place at 2 o'clock the same day from Sands Funeral Parlors. Burial will be in Royal Oak Burial Park. Major Rev. W. Barton, Fifth British Columbia Coast Brigade Canadian Garrison Artillery, officiating. The funeral services will be military, and there will be a large attendance from the ex-service organizations of the city.

CASH OFFERED IN ART COMPETITION

His Excellency Lord Willington Sponsors Educational Project to Encourage Cultivation of Arts

With the intention of encouraging the cultivation of arts and letters among British subjects residing within the Dominion, His Excellency Lord Willington, Governor-General of Canada, has again offered prizes for an open competition in music, literature, painting and sculpture.

Last year His Excellency first sponsored an arts competition for Canada. The idea was so well received and the results were so gratifying, that it has been decided to repeat the enterprise, at the same time slightly widening the scope of the competition.

In the field of music four prizes of $100 each are offered. The first for the best composition for violin or pianoforte; the second for a vocal solo setting with pianoforte accompaniment of a poem chosen by the committee; the third for an air with variations for flute or clarinet and strings; and the fourth for a madrigal setting to words of an Elizabethan poet chosen by the committee.

Under literature, two prizes of $100 each are to be awarded for the best essay on one of three subjects chosen by the committee; one prize for an essay in French and one in English.

A prize of $200 is offered for the best painting in oils, water in color, pastel or tempera; all works to be framed and not less than twenty inches one way in size.

CIRCULARS ISSUED

A final award of $200 is to be made for the best sculpture in bronze, marble, stone, wood, plaster or terra cotta, in relief or round. Entry forms may be secured from James P. Crowley, Governor-General's Office, East Block, Ottawa.

Circulars outlining the proposed competition and the rules governing it may be had from the British Columbia Society of Fine Arts or any of the Canadian art societies elsewhere.

All exhibits must reach the secretary before February 15, 1930.

GOOD PROGRESS MADE WITH NEW GAS PRODUCER

Brief Description of Process to Be Employed in Carburetted Water Gas-Making Plant

WILL BE MANUAL FORM OF CONTROL

Good progress is being made with the new carbureted water gas plant building for the Victoria Gas Company, now under construction by Messrs. Humphreys & Glasgow, Limited, of London, England.

The work is being supervised by Mr. H. S. Cheetham, who superintended the erection of the automatic carbureted water gas plant at Keefer Street, Vancouver, last year.

The plant differs from that at Vancouver in not being automatically operated, being controlled by hand. A brief description of the process, supplied by Mr. Cheetham, shows that coke is charged through the door above the generator, and by an intermittent process of operation, during which steam and air are caused to pass through the generator. It is gasified, and the clinker formed from the ash in the coke is withdrawn through the doorway provided in the lower part of the generator. The gas, as it leaves the generator, is known as blue water gas, and while used in that form in industrial purposes, it is unsuitable for domestic use. To render the blue water gas suitable for domestic purposes, it is passed into the carburetor, in the top of which is an arrangement whereby heated gas oil is sprayed into the blue gas, and coming into contact with hot brickwork, is gasified.

The mixture of blue gas and oil gas is fixed into a permanent gas in the superheater, from which it is passed into the washer, where the tar is removed. On leaving the washer it is cooled, and after further purification is ready for storage in the gas holder until used.

SCHOLARSHIPS PRESENTED TO COLLEGE YOUTH

Bursaries Totaling $1,000 Given to Successful Students Yesterday Afternoon

LARGE AUDIENCE AT VICTORIA COLLEGE

The possibility that British Columbia might some day be able to emulate England in establishing some form of bursaries and scholarships to assist talented children of pioneer settlers in remote country districts, who in the present conditions are often handicapped from pursuing their studies, was held out by Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, in the address which he gave at Victoria High School yesterday afternoon in connection with the annual scholarship and bursary presentations of Victoria College.

The presentations took place in the presence of a big audience of college students and their parents. In addition to Prof. P. H. Elliott, principal of the college, and other members of the faculty, there were on the platform Hon. J. Hinchliffe, Dr. E. B. Paul, principal emeritus, who was given a particularly cordial welcome; Trustees George Jay and J. L. Beck; Mr. P. B. Currah, Major and Mrs. F. V. Longstaff, Mr. P. B. Fowler and Mr. B. C. Nicholas. Other special guests were Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Jay, Mrs. Parr, Miss Cameron and Mrs. Frank Scott. Members of the faculty present included Miss Cann, Mrs. Sanderson, Miss Humphreys, Prof. Parr, Prof. Gage, Mr. George Black and Mr. A. J. Savanah.

PRINCIPAL'S ADDRESS

In welcoming the guests, Principal Elliott told something about the condition of Victoria College, which this year had a total enrollment of 250 students, 175 in the first year, seventy-five in the second year, and noted with satisfaction that the men, with a total of 144 outnumbers the women students by more than two to one. In referring to the staff, the principal paid a tribute of appreciation, both on behalf of the faculty and students, to Prof. Parr, whose valued services the college had lost this year through his illness, and whose "sheer grit and courage" in carrying on last term had won the esteem and admiration of all.

Mr. George Jay spoke briefly in explanation of the original Governor's scholarship, and Mr. P. B. Fowler, who presented the Canadian Club bursary, said that his recent visit to Amsterdam had emphasized on his mind the desirability of having a ready knowledge of three or four languages at least.

MINISTER OF EDUCATION

The principal speaker of the afternoon was the Minister of Education, Hon. J. Hinchliffe. In congratulating the winners of the scholarships and bursaries, he praised particularly those who had attained the prize by dint of hard work, remarking that they had within themselves the making of better men and women than those who had merely natural ability. Both classes of students, however, must remember that their scholarship would be but an idle possession if it were not turned to the benefit of humanity.

It was a gratifying commentary on the interest taken by the people of British Columbia in education that there were so many bursaries available. He said that he would like to see some system of scholarships, similar to that operating in England, whereby men of otherwise limited opportunities might be enabled to secure the best possible education and occupy the highest positions of trust in the land. Finally, he had a word of encouragement to the students.

CATHOLIC WOMEN HAVE BUSY YEAR

Reports Read at Annual Convention—Many Addresses Given and Enthusiasm Year's Plans Made

A year of progress and great activity was reported at the fourth annual convention of the Catholic Women's League held on Wednesday evening in the K. of C. Hall. Miss H. O'Brien, the president, welcomed the delegates and summarized the year's work. She referred to the recent congress of Catholic Women's Leagues held at The Hague when as representatives of thirty-four nations and fifty-five leagues the delegates spoke for an organization of 25,000,000 women, who are interested themselves in all forms of child welfare and social service, education, various forms of work for women, social legislation, equal moral standard, better films and literature, healthful recreation, in a word all that goes for the betterment of mankind through the efforts of organized womanhood. The league has been honored with a seat in the Child Welfare Commission.

Mrs. Blair R. Reid read the diocesan secretary-treasurer's report. Regret at Mrs. Reid's resignation was expressed by Miss O'Brien, who presented her with a bouquet of carnations. Mrs. M. O'Neill was elected as her successor.

Reports were read from the various subdivisions, including Alberni, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

Miss O'Brien, convener of social service, reported on the work of the Sunshine Camp and the efforts of the big sisters committee in this splendid undertaking. The securing of pensions, aid to the W.C.T.U. Home, active co-operation at all times with the social service under Miss Snider's direction, were enlarged upon. Mrs. W. McManus, convener of organization, spoke briefly upon the efforts made during the year to organize more subdivisions, or to prepare the ground for other Up-Island organizations. The Junior Subdivision, organized on October 22, was referred to Mrs. McManus, who, as official convener of tag days, has accomplished an immense amount of work in this connection, securing taggers to co-operate with every good work for which the city has granted tag days during the past year.

Miss Snider also spoke regarding social service work. Mrs. Grant reported for immigration and Mrs. Cannon reported for the magazine. Dr. MacDonald, of the Halifax Institute for the Blind, in an address of strong appeal told of the uplifting work being accomplished by the institute for the blind. Major Bullock-Webster also addressed the meeting.

Rev. Father Wood congratulated the League upon its work.

A delightful musical programme was given under the direction of Mrs. McKenna, helmsman Orffation and Miss Charlebois singing solos. Miss Marguerite McKay and Miss Marguerite Mulligan played a brilliant piano solo, which was greatly enjoyed. Supper was served by Mrs. Blair Reid, Mrs. Baines and Mrs. Plumb, with a committee of ladies, the adjoining dining hall being prettily decorated.

Valuable Work Done By Seamen's Institute

The Ladies' Guild for Sailors will hold the annual birthday tea and bazaar for the Seamen's Institute on Thursday afternoon, at the Victoria Connaught Seamen's Institute, Superior Street, from 3 to 6 o'clock. This annual "at home" day at the Seamen's Institute affords a pleasant opportunity for the people of Victoria to visit their institute and to realize what it must mean to the sailors who visit this port. During the Summer months many Victorians subscribed to the funds of their institute, which has been doing excellent work during the past seventeen years, having succeeded in keeping out of debt during all that time and affording a happy home for sailors, where they may come to write a letter, smoke, play a game of billiards, have a meal or bed if desired, and where, when convalescing from hospital or out of a job they may find sympathy, encouragement and fresh employment. Another feature of the institute is the shelter it furnishes for young apprentice sailor boys during their shore leave. During the past year a great many lads have been welcomed here, and they have found good comradeship and sound advice in the late-appointed chaplain of the institute.

Approximately 285 ships were visited last year. 2,540 men registered at the institute and 220 apprentices spent their shore leave here.

An illustrated lecture will be given under the auspices of the Royal Society of St. George in Amphion Hall on Tuesday by Mrs. Phyllis Munday, of Vancouver, on "Garibaldi Park."

One hundred beautifully colored slides will be shown illustrating the gorgeous splendor of this park and mountain scenery contiguous to Vancouver, on the P.G.E. Railway.

The meeting will commence at 8 o'clock. Members of the Mountaineers Club have been invited to attend.

Striped Chipmunk's Caution

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

In all you do be circumspect, For danger you may thus detect.

—Striped Chipmunk.

Striped Chipmunk has had a great many shocks in his life. Shocks are a part of the lives of all the little furred and feathered people. They have them every day. Of course, some are worse than others. Anyone who has a great many enemies always watching for a chance to catch him is bound to have many shocks. But Striped Chipmunk never had a worse one than he did that morning when Flip the Terrier did him a good turn. No, sir. Striped Chipmunk never had a worse shock than he got that morning.

You see, it was this way. Striped Chipmunk had been working to fill his storerooms. He had been gathering seeds, stuffing the pockets of his cheeks and carrying them back to store away for the winter. He had made several trips that morning without anything unusual happening. Then, as he returned with an extra big load in his cheek pockets, and cautiously peeked out of the grass to see that the way was clear to his hole on the edge of the driveway in Farmer Brown's yard, he saw Flip the Terrier make a sudden rush. In an instant he saw who it was that Flip was after. It was Shadow the Weasel.

It seemed to Striped Chipmunk that just for a wee space of time his heart actually stopped beating. Yes, sir, that is the way it seemed. And then when it did start beating again it thumped so that it seemed to him it must be heard. You see, Shadow the Weasel is the one enemy that Striped Chipmunk fears most. Wherever he goes Shadow can follow. He cannot squeeze into a hole too small for Shadow to follow. He had seen Shadow that morning when he was chased by Farmer Brown's dog. He had seen Shadow that morning when he was chased by Farmer Brown's dog. He had seen Shadow that morning when he was chased by Farmer Brown's dog.

Striped Chipmunk held his breath as he watched Flip chase Shadow and finally saw Shadow disappear over by Farmer Brown's barn. The way was clear now. He could take that load of seeds into his storeroom. But he didn't do it. Instead of that he emptied his pockets and made a little pile of seeds beside a stone. Then he sat down where he could watch the place where he had last seen Shadow. "I wonder how much that fellow found out?" thought Striped Chipmunk.

In an instant he saw who it was that Flip was after.

munk "He was going right straight towards my hole. But perhaps he hadn't seen it when that dog rushed at him. I wonder if he had discovered my secret anywhere around? If he hadn't, and he hasn't found my hole, I am as well off as I was before. But it gives me the shivers to think what might happen to me if that fellow should come this way again. I don't think I'll go home for a while. I'll stay away from it. Shadow never stays in one place very long and if he doesn't find any fresh scent of mine to lead him to my home, he may go off."

So Striped Chipmunk sat for the longest time perfectly still right where he was. He saw nothing more of Shadow, so at last he ventured to go back to the old stone wall along the edge of the Old Orchard. He had a lot of hiding places there and although that was just the place that Shadow would be likely to search for him, he felt that it would be safer for him to remain there the rest of that day than to take a chance of giving away the secret of his home. He waited from the top of that old stone wall he could very nicely keep watch. So he spent the rest of the day there. Toward dusk he returned to his home, but he didn't return in his usual way. He went away round and approached it from another direction altogether. That is how cautious Striped Chipmunk was.

Weddings

BIRLEY-LOYD

Of interest to Victoria friends of Mrs. H. S. Lloyd, who formerly resided on Lampson Street, is the account of her daughter's marriage, which took place at Aspley Guise, Bedfordshire, England, on August 25, just received by relatives here: "There was a large and fashionable congregation at St. Botolph's Church on Wednesday afternoon to witness the marriage of Miss Patricia Hilda Lloyd, elder daughter of the late Captain Hugh S. Lloyd, R.N.L.I. and K.A.R., and of Mrs. Lloyd, Old Thatch, Aspley Guise, granddaughter of Colonel E. Lloyd (late Indian Cavalry), of Bedford, and Mr. Studley Patrick Birley, brother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Harold Birley, of Moorland, Didsbury. The bride was escorted up the aisle by her grandfather and was given in marriage by her mother. The bridesmaids were Miss Felicity Lloyd, sister of the bride, the Misses Cicely and Barbara Birley, sisters of the bridegroom, and Miss Margaret Snell, Lillian Furse and Rachel Oriebar. Mr. Frank Jocelyne was best man and the groomsmen were Mr. Frank Beardsell, Mr. Bertram Stowell, Mr. Eric Birley, brother of the bridegroom, Mr. Dewhurst Thomas, Mr. Jack Cochran and Mr. George Allfrey. After the ceremony a reception was held in the beautiful garden of Old Thatch, and later the bride and groom left by airplane for Paris."

The minister called at the Jones' home one Sunday afternoon, and little Willie answered the bell. "Pa ain't home," he announced. "He went over to the golf club." The minister's brow darkened, and Willie hastened to explain: "Oh, he ain't gonna play any golf. Not on Sunday. He just went over for a few highballs and a little stud poker."—The Staley Journal.

Fashion Fancies

By Marie Belmont

Falling into the style line this season is becoming more agreeable with each new command from French headquarters. Recruited from the foremost houses of Paris is this smart ensemble shown above. The green and black mixed tweed is of high rank, while the short cape on the fashionable three-quarter jacket has enviable authority. There is no question of morale when a one-piece dress with low flared wrap-around skirt are in the company. A jabot of pleated handkerchief linen, trim black felt turban and black suede gloves all do special duty. Who wouldn't be proud to parade this outfit?

English and Other Gloves

Smartest Gloves for Sports Wear Made in England—Variety of Skins Used

All motoring, gardening and driving gloves are made in England, and English gloves are made of hard-wearing leathers and are well cut, says an article in The Times. Many of them are washable.

There is a growing industry at Woodstock, where incomparable driving gloves can be had, and from Sussex village industries come some of the best gardening gloves. The strongest of these are made of horsehide, which is as lasting as anything of the sort can be; and these strong gauntlets are invaluable to gardeners and hedgers. They are hand-stitched with fine leather thong, and withstand thorns and wet. The best are made by one old man in an out-of-the-way corner of Sussex, who learned his art from his father, who in turn, inherited it from his father—a generation of gloves.

SMART STITCHING

Sometimes the cuffs are castellated in cut and decorated with contrasting but harmonious colors in suede; and Devel, of Brussels, shows a collection of black glaze kid gloves trimmed with modernist designs in white glaze kid. His cuffs are nearly always flared and heavily hand-embroidered, as are also the ribs on the back of the gloves. Worth offers a kid sports glove with a perfectly plain back, but elaborate stitching round the gauntlet cuff and wristlet-band, which is secured by the fashionable link-fastener. Alexandrine, of Paris, has designed gloves of washable yellow and brown kid for day wear, and some moist suede bordered with fine feather fronds sprinkled with stars for evening. Chanel has created scarves, gloves and handbags in three tones of colored kid.

NAPPA GLOVES

For motoring, Pownes are selling fleecy-lined gauntlet gloves with tan nappa palms and backed with camel or llama pile fabric. For ordinary wear they supply pull-on gloves, fleecy-lined, with elastic at the wrist, made either of tan nappa or of suede and backed in the same manner. Other firms are showing nappa gloves with deep gauntlet cuffs lined with a contrasting shade and held by a leather link button. Some of them are backed with natural lamb, which is simply washed and dyed.

There are also attractive hand-sewn gloves of washable buckskin with gauntlet cuffs edged with hand-thonging; and some of beige lavokin—a washable goatskin—held to the wrist with hidden elastic under a bracelet strap of lavokin relieved by a plait of orange leather running through it and an orange pearl button as clasp.

Plain gloves of washable skins are seen with a piping of contrasting color on the cuff, or a geometric design on wrist or thumb; also gloves in bright hues to match the color of

CHAMBER WILL ASK FOR TALKS FROM EXPERTS

Resolution Requests Series of Lectures by Specialists on Staff of Provincial Government

SPECIAL DINNER MEETING ARRANGED

At yesterday's luncheon meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce a resolution, submitted by Mr. P. B. Fowler, president of the chamber, and seconded by Mr. J. O. Cameron, which had to do with the future development of Victoria's hinterland, was carried unanimously and will be forwarded to Premier Tolmie.

The resolution read as follows: Whereas it is the opinion of the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce that a great service could be rendered to the residents of British Columbia if our people were educated to think along practical lines in the matter of production and supply and demand;

And whereas there are experts on the Provincial Government staffs who can make a valuable contribution to our knowledge of the following subjects:

(1) The advantages of Vancouver Island for raising purebred livestock, and the possibilities of markets for same both in Canada and for export.

(2) Fruit and berry growing on Vancouver Island and possibilities of development of trade, both fresh, preserved and canned.

(3) Seed and bulb production and an outline of best methods and the volume of business elsewhere.

(4) Possibilities of vegetable growing and markets for canned and fresh vegetables.

(5) Development of the horticultural business on Vancouver Island, fruit trees, shrubs, roses, etc.

(6) Dairy development both as regards cows and goats and possibilities of producing enough butter and cheese for our local requirements.

(7) Possibilities of logged-off lands and the development of sheep and goat raising.

(8) Poultry farming and egg production.

(9) The development of our fresh fish business round the coast of Vancouver Island.

And whereas the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, through the means of its industrial and agricultural committees at monthly luncheons and at other meetings has been arranging for such experts to speak and broadcast their knowledge of the subjects mentioned;

Now be it resolved, that this chamber respectfully requests the Honorable the Premier to allow the various experts to co-operate with the chamber in the practical publicity, which could only result in substantial progress to British Columbia and Vancouver Island in particular.

And be it further resolved that the Honorable the Premier be invited to attend the inaugural lecture and thus give impetus to the campaign in the eyes of the public.

In seconding the resolution Mr. Cameron pointed out the need for developing logged-off lands instead of letting these revert to nonpayment of taxes.

At yesterday's meeting it was also decided to hold a special dinner in the chamber on November 14, in order to welcome Col. J. H. Woods, of Calgary, Col. Woods, who is president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, will address the guests at the dinner, who will be composed of members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and Island Boards of Trade.

ARTIFICIAL VOICE HEARD IN AIRPLANE

Experiments with Synthetic Larynx Made for Persons With Paralyzed Vocal Cords

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—An artificial voice, supplied by a synthetic larynx designed for the use of persons with paralyzed vocal cords, spoke today from the Hotel Astor and was heard distinctly understood by the occupants of an airplane flying 2,000 feet above New Brunswick, N.J., and by more than 750 members of the Electrical Association of New York, who had gathered at the Astor to witness the experiment. It was the first time in history an artificial voice had spoken to a plane in the air. Bell Telephone Company engineers said, although it had been used with success in transatlantic telephone conversation.

S. P. Grace, vice-president of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, conducted the experiment in the hotel, while one of the company's engineers in the plane listened to the results. By merely formulating the words with his lips and without using his vocal cords, Mr. Grace projected syllables into a rubber tube, fitted with a bellows-like attachment which operated on the same principle as the human larynx.

His words were heard with remarkable clarity by the audience in the room, and were answered promptly by the engineer in the "flying laboratory" aloft over New Brunswick. The plane's pilot then held the transmitter to his motor, and his roar was carried to the audience in the hotel room.

The experiment was conducted over a special hook-up, being carried by land wire through the New York Telephone building at 140 West Street to the radio transmitter at Whippany, N.J., and broadcast thence to the plane.

A demonstration was also given of "inverted speech," or ordinary speech recorded on a disc with the frequencies reversed, so that high frequencies become low frequencies and vice versa. "Inverted speech" is unintelligible to the listener, and is designed to insure secrecy in radio connections.

Frances: "How much would you pay to have hair like mine?"

Chili: "I don't know. How much did you?"

SEEPAGES OF PETROL OIL ON GONZALES

Shales on Property of Mr. J. W. de Bald, on North Side of the Hill. Found to Contain Some Oil

HOME OIL OFFICIAL VISITS LOCATION

From time to time oil seepages in the vicinity of Victoria are rumored, and some thirty years ago active drilling operations, covering a period of a year or more, were prosecuted on Muir Creek, west of Sooke. There was no question as to the quality of the oil located at that point, although the drill failed to find it in commercial quantities, the structure not being suitable for a field containing deposits of lakes of this much-sought-after commodity.

Recently it was announced that an oil seepage had been located within the limits of the city of Victoria. After building a home seven years ago at the north end of Sunny Lane, on the Shoal Bay side of Gonzales Hill, which he named Sunny Park, Mr. J. W. de Bald decided to purchase a motor car, which necessitated the building of a roadway from the street to his residence, several hundred feet distant. This roadbed is all on a shale formation, and for a considerable distance a quantity of this material had to be removed in order to make the driveway wide enough for a car. Having occasion to widen this road some time after, or something over a year ago, at a point near his house, he relates, he was picking into the shale when a spurt of something liquid came in contact with his face. Not paying any attention to the circumstances at the time, he was surprised on returning later to find a small trickling stream of thick liquid coursing down the roadway, eventually reaching his gate, several hundred feet away and entering the public lane.

Mr. De Bald mentions that he has over 250 gallons now stored in his garage, bailing out of the well about eighteen gallons each week.

Whether the oil is seeping from the shales which occur there in contact with massive granite on either side, the granite to the north-west of where the flow was first noticed, being about 100 feet distant, and in a southeasterly direction about 1,000 feet, or whether it comes up from below is, of course, a matter for further investigation. Mr. De Bald reports that the president of the Home Oil Company, who had looked over the situation on Wednesday of this week, had expressed the opinion that the liquid was coming up from below through pressure. Since it became known that oil had appeared on his property, the owner has been approached by several parties with a view to its development, but up to the present time he has not entered into any engagements for investigation of the property's possibilities as an oil field.

INSOMNIA

(Health Service of the Canadian Medical Association)

Inability to sleep is insomnia. This is a symptom which occurs in some diseases, but in health it is chiefly a bad habit due to conditions which can be corrected.

Falling asleep is a habit. One is much more likely to go to sleep easily if there is a regular hour for going to bed. Enough physical work or exercise should be taken during the day so that the body is pleasantly tired at bedtime. Over-fatigue, however, tends to disturb sleep.

Insomnia is caused, in many cases by the individual's worry. There is no reason for worry. Lying quietly in bed, even if not asleep, is rest, and if worry about not sleeping is banished from the mind, sleep will come all the sooner. Those who suffer from insomnia very often sleep much more than they realize. They are worried, and certain that they had not an hour's sleep, that they had heard the clock strike every hour; but, in fact, it will be found that they slept a fair amount.

No one should worry about inability to sleep, as we have said, and any deliberate effort to put oneself to sleep will most likely have the opposite effect. There are, however, certain things which may be done and which have been found to be helpful in many cases.

A walk during the evening, a warm bath, a warm drink, unless it causes bladder action during the night, are helpful to many. The bedroom should be well ventilated and cool, or the bed should be on a porch. The bed should be firm and comfortable, the pillow low. Usual or monotonous sounds, or lack of sound, tend to promote sleep.

A person sleeps best when the stomach is practically empty. A heavy meal may cause sleepiness for a time, but it disturbs rest later. Those who are sensitive to caffeine should avoid the use of tea or coffee. Reading an interesting book is a good way to divert one's mind from worry, and it is a helpful routine for many to read such a book for ten minutes or so after getting into bed. Slow, deep breathing is, for others, a simple way to go quietly to sleep.

We would repeat that the greatest cause of insomnia is worry about not being able to sleep. When that worry is banished from the mind, sleep usually comes.

Questions, concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Millicent—Oh, what do you think? A famous artist looked at my paintings and he was very much impressed. He thinks they are original.

Bob—Did he say they were original?

Millicent—Well, not in so many words. But, of course, what he said meant that. He said he never saw or heard tell of anything like them.

DEMPSEY SEES STORY AT NEW ANGLE OF VIEW

Ex-Heavyweight Champion Finds Boxers Obtaining Too Much Money for Appearances

AGREEMENT TO STOP OUTBIDDING

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Jack Dempsey, whose two ventures as a boxing promoter resulted in no fattening of his bank account, says that fighters are getting too much money, leaving the promoter to hold the well-known tag. The former world's heavyweight champion suggests forming a working agreement with Paddy Harmon, president of the Chicago Stadium Corporation, whereby they will not bid against each other to obtain the services of boxers. "No one losing money by bidding against each other," Dempsey said. "The trouble here in promoting is that we have to pay the boxers too much money. Harmon and I ought to get together. Maybe we will."

CAPITALS, RED BIRDS AND Y.M.C.A. WIN

Exciting Games Are Played at High School, in City Basketball League With Decisive Victories

SUPERIOR SHOOTING MARKS FINAL GAME

Three fast games were played last night at the High School in the City Basketball League, the Y.M.C.A. beating out the Sons of Canada in a very close struggle. The Red Birds won from the Axioms, while the Capitals took the senior "A" game from the C.P.S.

The first game was a battle from start to finish, with one team first taking the lead, then the other. When the interval arrived the Sons were in the lead by four points, chiefly through the fine shooting of Clyde Nicol, while the Y's were each taking their turn in getting baskets. Resuming in the second half, the Y.M.C.A. gradually forged to the front, the deadly shooting of Rowlands and Acres making it safe in the last minutes for their team. Rowlands and Acres starred for the winners, while Nicol and Taylor did good work for the Sons.

The teams and scores were: Y.M.C.A.—Acres (4), Bayley (2), Craig (46), Engelson (4), Rowlands (4) and Ruttan. Sons of Canada—Blair (2), Gandy (2), Nicol (14), Brynjolfsson, Greenwood (2), J. Taylor, Wright, John Taylor (2).

The Red Birds were too good in the final minutes of an exciting battle and finished at the long end of a real game, 15-13. Halftime score was even, both teams having eight points. T. Rennie starred for the Red Birds and J. Milligan was the best for the Axioms. The teams and scores were as follows:

Red Birds—K. Walburn (7), M. Wilson (1), T. Rennie (4), M. Motion, B. Boyce (4), D. Lea and K. Atherley. Axioms—J. Milligan (6), N. Ames, K. Freestone, J. Anderson (2), B. Penzer, R. Bethel (4).

SUPERIOR SHOOTING The final game was won by the Capitals, superior shooting of Webster and MacKenzie proving too much for the lumbermen. The first half was fairly even with the Capitals being in the lead. Nice passing and fast floor work proved too much for the C.P.S., and they again failed to get in the winning column. Jack MacKenzie and Webster were the best of the Capitals, while George Davies was high scorer for the lumbermen. Final score was 35-24. Teams and scores were:

Capitals—Forbes (4), MacKenzie, W. Skillings (4), W. Turpin, A. Webster (10), A. Cudlip, W. Irvine (6). C.P.S.—R. Butler (4), G. Davies (12), E. Viggers, S. Skillings (7), G. Fagerberg (1) and G. Woolridge.

Ring of Steel Blades Will Be Heard at Willows Ice Palace Once Again—Orchestra to Accompany

RECORD CROWD EXPECTED

The old familiar ring of the steel blades will be heard once again this evening when the skating season will be officially ushered in at the Willows Arena. Experts and neophytes, both male and female devotees of the much welcomed winter pastime will be anxiously waiting for the doors to swing open at 8:15 o'clock, to permit them to have their initial whirl over the frozen surface.

This year, as in previous years, the opening night will be devoted entirely to the lovers of skating, as the grand opening will probably be on November 9 when a bevy of fancy and speed demons, besides a host of other attractions, are arranged for the public.

According to the number of season tickets already disposed of, a record opening attendance may be witnessed at the Arena tonight. When President Stanley Patrick announced the opening date about three weeks back, hundreds of skaters headed for the attic or other favorite spot to dig up the blades and send them to the hospital for a general overhaul. For the past few weeks the sporting goods stores have had a busy time sharpening, repairing and selling new skates.

Shortly after the slippery surface is open for use, Jimmy Miller's orchestra will accompany the skaters with the latest dance hits on the market. The lights will go off at 10:30 o'clock and the first night's sport will be all over.

"Brandy, brandy" shouted a man as a crowd gathered round. "My poor wife has fainted." Someone offered a flask, which the worried husband took and promptly emptied down his throat. "Thanks, that's better—I never could stand scenes," he said.

halibut, spinach, cooked cauliflower, salad of sliced tomatoes (no dressing), no desert. Saturday—Breakfast: Genuine wholewheat bread slightly toasted, peanut butter, stewed prunes. Lunch: Spaghetti (wholewheat product) boiled and buttered, salad of cold cooked asparagus (canned) on lettuce. Dinner: Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, steamed carrots, "cooked lettuce, salad of crisp raw spinach leaves, raw celery. Pine-apple sponge.

"Cooked lettuce. The mention of lettuce instantly brings to mind a raw salad vegetable, crisp and cold. However, as a change, it is surprisingly palatable in the form of a cooked green, prepared in the following manner which eliminates the draining away of any excess liquid and thus destroying the valuable mineral elements contained in all vegetables.

Separate the leaves of as much lettuce as desired, or cut the heads into quarters or eighths as in preparing cabbage, and wash thoroughly under running water. Put lettuce into a heavy aluminum pan over a low fire. The water that clings after the final washing affords sufficient moisture. When lettuce is heated through, which will take about three or four minutes, turn the fire higher, cover the pan, and cook for about ten minutes. Serve hot with butter.

Canon Tollington tells of a lady who died at the home of his friend, after the latter had returned from church, what the preacher had said. "Well, ma'am," was the reply, "I can't tell you all he said, but he did say that hell is not what it used to be."

"Close-Ups" of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales

NO. 5—AFTER DARK
"There's No Play for Overture in My Job"—The Prince as a Detective—Sherlock Holmes and Watson at St. James'—The Hot Chestnut Stall—Contrast at the Theatre—In the Green Room.
By EVELYN GRAHAM

Probably ninety per cent of the people in this country find that their chief time for recreation and amusement is after nightfall. During the whole day they have been performing those tasks that they are paid to do, whether they enjoy them or not, but when the whistle has blown or the hour has struck they are at least at liberty to follow their own bent.

Things are but little different for the Prince of Wales, and the difference lies in the fact that so often even his evenings are not his own. I remember during H.R.H.'s tour of the distressed areas he came to the home of a family who were employed in a factory that was doing a sudden burst of work that had to be finished by a certain date. When the Prince entered the cottage at dusk it was trim and neat with the unaccustomed prosperity, he found only the woman of the house at home. During the course of a chat with her, she bemoaned the fact that very often her men folk did not get home until ten o'clock at night, and that they had practically no time to themselves. "I'm not grumbling," said the good woman, "for, after all, we do get paid for overtime."

"I should hope not," replied the Prince. "I seldom get home until midnight, and there is no pay for overtime in my job."

The aspect of the Prince that we are now considering is thus an unfamiliar one. It is a night on which he has not been obliged to do any overtime, and it is a night that he has not decided to go dancing, for that we have seen already. Perhaps his favorite way of spending one of these rare evenings is to remain quietly at home in his cosy sitting room at York House, with a big pipe in his teeth and a detective story in his lap and "Cora," his cairn terrier, at his feet. By his side you will see generally his ukulele in case he wishes to seize him to strum a bit on it. On these occasions he generally changes into his blue and yellow silk dressing gown for comfort, and if you were to substitute for the ukulele violin, he would present a perfect study of Sherlock Holmes working on a difficult case. Indeed, he is often occupied in the same manner as Sherlock Holmes, though the crime that he is solving is one that has been ready made in the recourses of brain of the author of the volume that he is reading. A member of his staff tells me that H.R.H. looks upon detective stories as a mental exercise, and when he has read so far in the book, he puts it down and works out his own theory as to its solution. In fact, he is a member of his staff with him they will play the Sherlock Holmes game in which the members of the staff are the parties to the plot, and the Prince develops his own solution with the reasons for what criticisms occur to him, and these are generally immediately squashed by Sherlock, who is quite an adept at the game. Then the Prince reads on. About half an hour afterwards there is often a great shout of triumph from him. "I told you so," he will say; "the bogus count has committed the crime, after all, and the diamonds are concealed in the shrubbery."

I think myself and those who have played this game with him agree that H.R.H. would make an excellent writer of detective stories himself. Locked up in his desk many (so-called) amateur efforts at authorship will never see print or be read by the public. The Prince would enjoy writing his autobiography, but unfortunately his position and duty precludes him from giving to the world in volume form the hosts of impressions in men and things—to say nothing of women—which his crowded life has given him.

Like his grandfather and like the great majority of his fellow subjects the Prince has no patience with the high falutin high-brow style of writing that so many of the younger generation of writers affect. He once said at a small dinner party: "I don't want to know all the little complexes and inhibitions and what not of characters who don't do anything from one end of the book to the other. What I want is a book where people do things instead of talking sex all the time."

However, we have talked enough about the Prince's taste in literature, for he is a man of action more than he is a man of letters, and there are many evenings that he does not spend in this way with a pipe and a book.

He has not his grandfather's taste for going out into the town incognito in the evenings, though he has occasionally spent an evening in that way.

There was one evening when he had been going for a short stroll and he passed a hot chestnut vendor. The night was cold and the Prince stopped and ordered a few, which he ate as he stood by the chestnut vendor gave no signs of recognition, but chatted to him about the inclemency of the weather, which he called "damn cold" and the poor state of the chestnut trade, which he described as one of the depressed productive industries. When he suggested that the Prince of Wales ought to make a tour of the industry, H.R.H. became a little doubtful of his innocence, but the conversation soon changed to less thin ice and the Prince departed, leaving the vendor to his wares.

Some weeks afterwards he happened to pass the same hot chestnut barrow on the streets. It was decorated with the Prince of Wales' feathers and underneath was the inscription, "Under the Distinguished Patronage of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales."

It is, however, unusual for people who see and recognize the Prince to keep quiet about it. There are occasions when he goes to the theatre with the simple intention of watching the show instead of constituting himself a member of the audience. On these occasions he purchases two seats in the stalls just like another member of the public and enters with one of his staff. In order to avoid recognition he likes to time his entry at the exact moment when the lights have gone down but the curtain has not yet been raised. It is very difficult to do this without being late, but to do the Prince justice, he generally manages it, and would far rather be recognized by going in earlier than spoil the view of any member of the audience by going in late. There have, however, been times when he has not been successful in this endeavor, and there is a row of not over-pleased folk in the stalls before he has reached his seat.

I remember one particular occasion when it had leaked out into the press that the Prince was going to the theatre. He arrived some two or three minutes after the curtain had been raised and was making his way carefully and cautiously into his seat in the middle of the row. There were two rather grumpy people sitting there who had, I imagine, come rather to see the Prince than to see the show. As other table the hand was played at three No Trumps, South bidding. SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING. Auction—South with a two-suiter, opens the bidding with one Heart. West lacking the high card strength for a defensive bid, passes. North takes out with one Spade in denial of Hearts. East, passing; South bids two Diamonds to show his second suit. This concludes the bidding, as North figures there is greater probability of game at Diamonds than at No Trumps.

Contract—The bidding starts the same as in Auction. North, with a biddable Spade suit and two side Aces, shows such strength by a "forcing" take-out of two Spades. East, passing; South, who is void of Spades, bids four Diamonds, and only to evidence his desire to play the hand at a suit trump, but to invite a game or slam bid at a suit, the one best fitted to the combined hands.

THE PLAY. West opens the Queen of Clubs. With the exposure of Dummy hand, South starts in to bid to the adverse distribution before committing himself to any particular line of development. He wins the first trick with the Ace in Dummy, leads the Queen of Clubs, discarding the Queen of Hearts.

From the fall of the King of Spades from East, and the Jack of Hearts from West, it becomes clear that he is opposed by uneven suit distributions which may also include the adverse trump holding. Consequently, his best plan of development would seem to be a "cross-ruff." Proceeding along these lines, he next leads the Five of Clubs, wins with the King and lays down the Ace of Hearts, which West kills with the King of Diamonds. South now leads the King of Diamonds, over-trumping with the Ace. South next lays down the Queen of Spades to force a trump from East. West, however, in his own hand and laying down the King of Hearts which holds.

South then leads the Five of Hearts, trumping with the Ten of Diamonds and returns a small Spade, trumping in his own hand and continuing to cross-ruff to the end, making in all thirteen tricks. Copyright, 1929, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

The Prince passed them, they muttered gruffly: "Why can't you get here in time? Don't you know that you are probably preventing the Prince of Wales from seeing it?" Very politely H.R.H. apologized to them.

At that precise moment the lights from the stage caught his face. To watch the countenances of his critics was a far better comedy than anything on the stage. Of course, being heir to the throne has its advantages. In the theatrical world as well as its drawbacks, for he is always a very welcome guest in the green room, though he does not always visit it. If, however, he has been particularly impressed by a performance, which does not frequently happen, as he is a keen critic of the drama, he likes to pay his compliments in person after the play is over, and some of the proudest moments of one or two actors have occurred after the play is over when the Prince has been in the audience and has been well pleased with what he has seen.

But this is not an article on green room memories, and so, as Pepsy would say, to bed.

Indian Visits Moose Jaw Grown to City Since Time He Camped There as Child

When Sitting Bull was captured in 1890, Claude M. Reddor, a full-blood Sioux Indian, was a boy of eight years. "His folks," as he described his people, spent that winter in the valley of the Moose Jaw River. In all, there were between two and three hundred Indians and Claude Reddor was one of the Indian boys who played among the tepees, who ran through the bushes and up the hills and with wonderment in his dark eyes watched the white people.

The next Spring many of the Indians moved south and into the United States, and the next time that Claude Reddor came back to the Moose Jaw River was in 1897. He stayed for nearly two years and as a young man made his way back to the camps of his race in the United States.

At the wheel of an automobile Claude Reddor drove into Moose Jaw on Sunday afternoon. With him were Joe and Emma, well known Indians from Wood Mountain, as well as Mrs. Reddor and another Indian squaw.

Thirty years had passed since Reddor had seen Moose Jaw, and to say that he was surprised at the development of a comparatively few years would be putting it very mild. He knew a number of old landmarks and recalled incidents of his youth.

He was particularly drawn to the valley of the Moose Jaw River and pointed out the places where "his folks" had camped. One of the camps had been in Kingsway Park, where the dance pavilion and other buildings now stand. The Sioux had also camped in the valley just below Grandview Avenue.

Reddor was immensely pleased with the Wood Mountain Park. He spent a great deal of time within the bounds and was surprised to find that he had driven seven miles from his old home.

By CHARLES B. BROWN
(Charles Brockden Brown, 1771-1816, was an American novelist. He wrote, among others, "Ormond," "Arthur Mervyn" and "Edgar Huntly.")

I passed through the cave. At that moment torrents of rain poured from above, and stronger blasts of thunder amidst these desolate recesses and profound chasms. Instead of lamenting the prevalence of the tempest I now began to regard it with pleasure. It conferred new forms of sublimity and grandeur on the scene.

As I crept with hands and feet along my imperfect bridge, a sudden gust had nearly whirled me into the frightful abyss. To preserve myself I was obliged to loose my hold of my knapsack and it fell into the gulf. This incident disconcerted me. As soon as I had effected my dangerous passage I screened myself behind a cliff, and gave myself up to reflection.

While thus occupied, my eyes were fixed upon the opposite steep. The tops of the trees, waving to and fro, in the wildest commotion, and their trunks, occasionally bending to the blast, which, in these lofty regions, blew with violence unknown in the tracts below, exhibited an awful spectacle.

At length my attention was attracted by the trunk which lay across the gulf, and which I had converted into a bridge. I perceived that it had already somewhat swerved from its original position, that every blast broke or loosened some of the fibres by which its roots were connected with the opposite bank and that, if the storm did not speedily abate, there was imminent danger of its being torn from the rock and precipitated into the chasm. Thus my retreat would be cut off, and the evils from which I was endeavoring to rescue another would be experienced by myself.

I believed my destiny to hang upon the speed with which I should recross this gulf. The moments spent in these deliberations were precious and I shuddered to observe that the trunk was held in its place by one or two fibres which were already stretched almost to breaking.

To pass along the trunk, rendered slippery by the wet and unsteady by the wind, was very dangerous. To maintain my hold in passing, in defiance of the whirlwind, required the most vigorous exertion. For this end it was necessary for me to relieve myself of my cloak.

Just as I had disposed of this incumbrance and had risen from my seat, my attention was again called to the opposite slope by the most unwelcome object that at this time could possibly appear. Something could be seen moving among the bushes and rocks, which, for a time, I hoped was no more than a racoon or opossum, but which presently appeared to be a panther.

His grey coat, extended claws, fiery eyes, and a cry which he at the moment uttered and which, by its resemblance to the human voice, is peculiarly terrifying, denoted him to be the most ferocious and untamable of that detested race of beasts. The situation was rendered serious by my lack of weapons of defence.

I had neglected on this occasion to bring my usual arms since I had met such hosts of prey so seldom hereabouts. The beast now before me, when stimulated by hunger, would assail whatever could provide him with a banquet of blood. He would set upon a man and the deer with equal and irresistible ferocity. His sagacity was equal to his strength, and he seemed able to discover when his antagonist was armed.

My past experience enabled me to estimate the full extent of my peril. He sat upon the brow of the steep, eyeing the bridge, and apparently deliberating whether he should cross it. It was probable that he had scented my footsteps thus far, and should he pass over, his vigilance could scarcely fail of detecting me in my hiding place.

Should he stay where he was my danger was hardly lessened. To pass over in the face of a famished tiger was only to rush upon my fate. The falling of the trunk, which I had so recently feared, I now just as earnestly desired. Every new gust I hoped would tear asunder its remaining bands and by cutting off all communication between the opposite slopes place me in safety. My hopes, however, were in vain. The fibres held, and presently the panther scrambled down the rock and began to creep.

Of all kinds of death, that which now menaced me was the most abhorred. To die by disease or by the hand of a fellow creature was lenient in comparison with being rent to pieces by the fangs of this savage. To perish in this obscure spot, by unknown means, to lose my portion of existence by so ignoble a fate was unbearable. I bitterly deplored my rashness in coming out unprovided with suitable defence.

The evil of my circumstances consisted chiefly in suspense. My death was unavoidable, but my imagination had leisure for torment in speculation. One foot of the beast was slowly and cautiously moved after the other. He struck his claws so deeply into the bark that they were with difficulty withdrawn. At length he leaped upon the ground. We were now separated by scarcely eight feet. To leave the spot where I crouched was impossible. Behind and beside me the cliff rose perpendicularly, and before me was this grim and terrific visage. I shrank still closer to the ground and closed my eyes.

From this pause of horror I was aroused by the noise occasioned by a second spring of the animal. He leaped into the pit in which I had so deeply regretted that I had not taken refuge, and disappeared.

My escape was so sudden and so much beyond my belief or my hope, that I doubted for a moment whether my senses did not deceive me. This opportunity to seek safety was not to be neglected. I left my place and scrambled over the trunk with a speed which had liked to have proved fatal. The tree groaned and shook under me, the wind blew with unparalleled violence, and I had hardly reached the opposite slope when the roots were severed from the rock and the whole fell thundering to the bottom of the chasm.

My fears were not speedily quieted. I looked back with wonder on my narrow escape, and on that singular accident of events which had placed me from danger in safety. Had the trunk fallen a moment sooner I should have been imprisoned on the other side or fallen headlong with it. Had its fall been delayed another moment, I should have been pursued—for the panther now issued from his den, and showed disappointed surprise in a manner which made my blood run cold.

He saw me and hastened to the verge of the chasm. He squatted on his hind legs and assumed the attitude of one preparing to leap. My consternation was aroused afresh by these appearances.

It seemed at first as if the space were too wide for any power of muscles to carry him over in safety. But I knew the great agility of this animal and that his experience had made him a better judge of the probable success of his leap than I could possibly be.

Still there was hope that he would relinquish his intention. This hope was quickly at an end.

He sprang, and his forelegs touched the verge of the rock on which I stood. In spite of powerful exertions, however, the surface was too smooth and too hard to let him get a good hold. He fell, and a piercing cry, uttered from below, told that nothing has obstructed his descent to the bottom.

Central Sahara

Not Waterless;
Game Plentiful

If you have the idea that the centre of the Sahara Desert is a land of never-ending heat and unintermitted thirst you might as well revise it right now. The world's greatest desert isn't as inhospitable as it has been pictured.

Take it from Eugene Wright, twenty-five-year-old traveler and author, who is now in the middle of a two-year trip across the Sahara to Lake Chad; the Sahara is a fine place to spend a vacation.

In a letter to his parents at Rutherford, N.J., Wright upsets some of the prevailing notions about the mighty desert, which he is crossing with one native guide and three camels.

"I am now in the geographical centre of the Sahara," he writes, "and it is not a land of thirst, but a land of plenty. There is water everywhere. By that I mean if one knows where the water is he need not travel more than ten or twelve miles in any direction to find it."

"There are great fantastic mountains, marvelous canyons and valleys of sand. The mornings are cool, sometimes so cold that we have to warm our hands by the fire, and the winds are of a delicious coolness."

"Last night I saw a moon as blue as the sea against a lavender sky, and the sunset was green. Don't tell me there is no magic. Every day I see magic. I have seen the footprints of men in rock. I have seen fish in the centre of the Sahara, a thousand miles from running water, and they tell me a crocodile was found in a pool of rain water near here."

Game is plentiful in the desert, according to the youthful traveler. On one occasion, at an oasis he killed enough partridges with a single shot to feed his entire party, which at that stage numbered seven men. A traveler in the Sahara enjoys excellent meals, he says, at a price of about four cents a day.

"No rajah eats better than we do," he writes. "Gazelle, partridge, goat and sheep whenever we want meat; camel and goat milk at every camp, free. Wheat costs three cents for two pounds, and other vegetables are given us free by the calds of the various villages. We eat marvelously, our bread baked in the sand, wonderful whole wheat loaves—I could go on forever describing the charms of our cuisine."

By the time Wright reaches Lake Chad he will have traversed a distance of some 3,000 miles. It is his intention, when he returns, to write a book on his experiences. A former book, "The Great Horn Spoon," told of his experiences in Borneo, Persia, and other Oriental countries.

A minister had been urging his congregation to give a hearty welcome to the stranger within the gates, not forgetting to maintain a proper interest in their own households.

After the service he went to the door as usual and began to shake hands with the people passing out. He was interested in a well-dressed and intelligent-looking young woman and greeted her heartily.

"I hope we may see you here often," he said. "We always have a warm welcome for new faces."

"Thank you," replied the girl modestly.

"Now," went on the minister, "if you will give me your address, my wife and I will call on you one evening."

"You won't have far to go," she said. "I'm your cook."
